
Different checks answer different questions; hardware evidence stays distinct