
Each change needs its own evidence; actuator count alone does not establish coupling.